The American BANKING System

Democracy at its Best

There are some 16,000 American banks, each owned and operated by local citizens. Separate in a sense—yet they are knit together into one great system for the common good of each community, yet they are geared to meet the nation's needs instantly in its hour of crisis. There's nothing like it elsewhere; it's the envy of every other country; it's democracy functioning at its very best.

FARM WOODLOT NEEDS CULLING

'Loafer' and 'Robber' Trees Should 'Get the Ax'

By PARKER ANDERSON
(Extension Forester, Missouri University of Agriculture)

The farm woodlot needs "culling" at this time of the year just as much as does the flock of laying hens. If the woodlot is to produce well in the future, loafer and robber trees should get the ax.

Trees culled out this winter will mean more pay for the trouble and labor in fuel, fence posts and lumber logs. Woodlots will gain from this practice, he says, because the remaining trees can grow faster and straighter.

It is a good idea to have an eye out for trees which will cast returns in the future. Productive trees should have the best in soil and sunlight, water and room to grow. Trees that "overtop" and steal sunlight from the trees below are among those recommended by Anderson for culling.
